👤 PROFILE

After working in computer systems and networks as my major, I chose to self-study on programming. I found programming very interesting and it helps me to increase my logical thinking ability. After self studying for a while, I moved on to being a full-time programmer. I am constantly learning new things to improve my skills and always look forward to having the opportunity to develop in a more professional and challenging environment.

I have 5 years of experience with PHP development and have research technology about ReactJS, Python to apply to my personal project.
